"Ten Year Objective" Is Fascinating Topic

Mrs. Ann Leidencker, technical librarian at the Los Angeles county library...

Mrs. Leidencker, a member of the Los Angeles N. B. P. W. is state chairman in charge of the "Objective" and has made a deep study of the whole project...

Her talk was so illuminating and so full of meaning for the members of the club that all present gave her their undivided attention...

The club program this month was provided by the education committee. In the absence of the chairman, Mrs. Margaret Dobrick, Mrs. Gladys Hollerbeck, member of the committee, presided and introduced the speakers.

William E. Bell, principal of the Torrance Elementary school, spoke on "What Education Means for American Youth." He brought into his brief remarks also a plea for the co-operation of the friends and patrons of the schools...

Bell was followed by Judge C. T. Rippey, who had been assigned the topic, "What Lack of Education Means for American Youth," but Judge Rippey declared that this "lack" presented such a gloomy picture that he preferred to state the matter in another way and discussed the advantages of education instead.

Mrs. Tom Ulrich, accompanied by Mrs. Teala Billini, sang two delightful numbers. Community singing was led by Hazel Barrett.

Mrs. Leidencker's address followed.

Three new members, Mrs. Maude Williams, principal of the Goman avenue school, Miss Grace Fennel of the Columbia Steel Corporation, and Miss Edna Schmidt of the C. M. C., took their places in the organization at this meeting and the name of a prospective member was presented, Miss Margaret Richhart, of the Torrance Mutual Building and Loan Association office, was a guest.

Decorations arranged by Beatrice Hughes and Theo McCoy were in keeping with the season and also carried out the education idea. Schoolroom pictures, puppets, handkerchiefs, pennants, and other devices recalling the old school days, were displayed, and a profusion of fall flowers ornamented the tables and filled the corners of the banquet room. Favors at the members' places were the programs for the evening done on gold paper, rolled to represent "diplomas" and tied with ribbons in the club colors.

MRS. SHEPARD TO SPEAK AT CENTRAL CHURCH

The Woman's Missionary Society will sponsor a service to be held at Central church, Sunday evening, November 20.
